

Work Begins Mon. On New Electric Plant

STAKING OUT POLE LINES FIRST ON SCHEDULE

Engineers Lewis and Norris of the engineering firm of Ayers, Lewis, Norris & May, of Ann Arbor, and the distribution system contractor, Geo. Schugmann of Abingdon, Ill., will arrive in Grayling Monday. At that time work on construction of the distribution system will be started.

Staking out of the system will have first attention. This is necessary in order to know definitely just how many and what size poles will be required. Also to determine the number of transformers, cross arms and other parts that may be required.

Now with the letting of the contract for construction of the building for housing the power plant, construction work will be going ahead rapidly. Plans for the building have not been made and must await information from the Diesel engine manufacturers in order to determine the design and dimensions required. Just as soon as this information is available, bids for construction of the power house will be advertised.

Bonds for the construction of the plant were sold at par, and a part of the money is now in Grayling State Savings Bank to be used as required. The remainder of the $154,000 will be available as needed.

It is expected that the new lighting and power plant will be in operation some time during the month of February next.

Mr. Schugmann says he will employ local labor with exception of two experienced men who will come with him. He will need three local linemen and 19 laborers. Married men are being given preference.

COUNTIES SENT LETTERS ON SLOT MACHINES

Lansing, Aug. 19—Emerson R. Boiles, legal adviser of Gov. Dickinson, sent letters to sheriffs of seven counties, asking why of seven counties, including Wayne, Saturday, asking why State Police found slot machines in their counties Thursday night.

The letters will be followed up, Boiles said, until Gov. Dickinson is satisfied. Dickinson made it clear Friday that he will proceed to custers of County officials who do not enforce the anti-gambling laws.

Besides Wayne, letters were sent to sheriffs of Macomb, St. Clair, St. Joseph, Clare, Roscommon and Crawford counties, each of which yielded four or more machines in Thursday night's raids.—Detroit Free Press.

Old Guard Lumbermen Picnic Last Sat.

The Old Guard Lumbermen of Michigan, an organization of men who have been in the lumber industry for twenty years or more, held their annual Stag Picnic and get-together here last Saturday, August 19th.

Most of these men began arriving about noon, in anticipation of the golf games to be held in the afternoon, but due to the heavy showers the games had to be called off.

At 6:30 o'clock sixty members sat down to an old-fashioned camp dinner at CCC Camp Hartwick Pines. Music was furnished during the dinner by the camp orchestra, which was much enjoyed. P. A. Gordon, (more familiarly known as "PA" to the group) President of the organization, acted as toastmaster, and called upon several for a few words. T. P. Peterson, of the local committee, bid the guests welcome, after which several others gave short talks, among them being T. W. Hanson, Harvey Woodfield of Jackson, Spencer Meilstrup of Detroit, Capt. Walter Maxwell of Camp Hartwick Pines, and a number of others.

Capt. Maxwell invited the group to inspect the various camp buildings, which proved of interest, as many of them had never before had the privilege of visiting a CCC camp.

She leaves to mourn her passing besides her husband, a daughter, Charlotte, age 2 years and an infant son, Robert Gerald.

The family have the sympathy of their many friends in Grayling.

Miss Florence Kellogg Weds In Royal Oak

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kellogg announce the marriage of their daughter Florence, to Lawrence Lofet Jr., of Royal Oak. The marriage vows were solemnized at 10 a. m. Saturday, August 12 at St. Mary's Church, Royal Oak in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride looked lovely in a gleaming white satin gown made on princess lines. With it she wore a finger-tip veil, and carried a bouquet of tea roses and baby breath. She was given away by her brother John Kellogg, as her father was unable to be there. The maid of honor, a friend of the bride, wore a white organdy floor-length gown trimmed in blue. She carried a bouquet the same as the bride. Steven Lofet, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lofet. A reception was held in the evening after which the young couple left on a short wedding trip.

Mrs. Lofet is a graduate of the Grayling High school with the class of 1932. She attended school in Lovells township until she entered High school in Grayling, and after graduation was employed at Mercy Hospital for two years. Two years ago she graduated as registered nurse's assistant from a hospital in Manistee.

Those from here in attendance at the wedding were the bride's mother Mrs. James E. Kellogg, sister Mrs. Paul Crawford, and brothers John and Guy Kellogg.

The young couple have the congratulations and best wishes for a happy wedded life of their many friends in Grayling and Lovells.

The American Legion and the Irm Boloney

(Reproduced by Permission of CLICK—The National Picture Monthly, September, 1939)

The biggest stumbling block in the path of Hitler's and Stalin's attempted "conquest" of the United States has been the American Legion. These boys made the world safe for democracy in 1918. As matured men, they are engaged in the even more difficult job of keeping our country safe for democracy in 1939.

Time and again, the well-laid plans of Moscow and Berlin have been smashed down by the veterans, just as they smashed down the Hindenburg line, and with it the mightiest military machine in world history.

What has been the result? The dictators, through their paid spies and agents, have countered with a devilishly clever campaign of poison-propaganda, painting these heroes as greedy bonus-grabbers, and political upstarts, with their organization at the beck and call of the forces of reaction, the enemies of true liberalism.

It is high time that somebody told the TRUTH about the American Legion, and not the Moscow-Berlin version. It is especially appropriate that CLICK should penetrate this foreign-made smoke screen, because the ideals and objectives of the American Legion are identical with the ideals and objectives of CLICK.

It was the gallant, untrained men of the present American Legion that drove Kaiser Bill into exile in 1918. They whipped over the knockout punch while France and England were bleeding to death. They knew nothing about warfare—but plenty about fighting. What they lacked in military science, they more than made up for in GUTS.

They kicked Kaiser Bill, symbol of mediaeval despotism, into the Doorn ash-can. They struck the shackles off Germany and Russia. And what happened? They find Kaiser Bill supplanted by a lunatic paper-hanger, and Czar Nicholas superseded by Stalin, "Man of Steel," a cowering egomaniac who must bathe in the blood of his best friends before he can eat breakfast.

In other words, the same world that they made safe for democracy a quarter-century ago, now has been kicked back into the darkest of the dark ages.

Worse than that, the Fascist-Communist hot shots are running a race to bring the United States into their orbit. To this end, they are flooding our country with skillfully camouflaged boloney, artfully designed to show the jobless, the grouches, the traitor and the weakling that their own "isms" will transform these United States into Utopia. The only price, of course, is the surrender of the freedom that our forefathers bought with their blood in 1776.

However, this super-hooey never has fooled the American Legion. Men who have stared Death in the face cannot be killed by Hitler or Stalin, or even by their American stooges, some of whom, unfortunately, occupy rather high positions in this country.

The ranks of the G. A. R. are thinning. Before long, there won't be a man in Blue left to inspire young America with the love of freedom more precious than life itself. Into the places of these gallant gray-beards comes the American Legion, as the living symbol of the price every patriot must expect to pay to protect his sacred heritage.

Accordingly, CLICK dedicates this issue to these soldiers of war and soldiers of peace. Four million service men and women are eligible for membership in the Legion. CLICK urges that all the eligibles join at once. It may be the best insurance against sending THEIR sons into another war.—CLICK, (September 1939 issue).

MRS. AXEL MICHELSON HOSTESS AT DINNER

Thirty-two ladies and gentlemen were guests of Mrs. Axel

Kiwanians Hear Musical Program

Traverse City, Aug. 23—The members of the Kiwanis Club, one of the most serviceable in the state, enjoyed a musical program of all farm animals, will step up at its meeting Wednesday. Instrumental solos, vocal solos and quartette numbers made up the program.

Quite a number of guests were present on the occasion. Among them were Col. LuRoy Pearson of the Quartermaster Corps of Michigan, and Fred D. Perry, of Lansing, public relations director of the Consumers Power Co. The latter resides in the Grand Traverse region.

Col. Pearson, of the Quartermaster Corps, was a vocal quartette consisting of Don Gothro, second tenor; Edward Webb, first tenor; Herbert Rowland, baritone, and Robert Perry, bass. They sang a number of songs, and lead in the community singing.

Robert Perry, who is a son of Fred D. Perry of Lansing, sang a number of bass solos. Mr. Perry is a young man, and his wonderful voice promises to carry him far in the musical world. He appeared with the above quartette at Methodist Memorial church last Sunday.

While Mr. Perry is 18 years of age, by reversing the figures we note the age of Mr. Webb, whom many invitees to hear. Together with Don Gothro and Rowland, they will go far to hear, and one would be hard to excel.

After her selection the Queen will be placed in a specially decorated stall in the cattle exhibition building, there to receive homage from Fair visitors for a day and a half before returning to her more domestic duties on the farm.

Invitations have been extended to every community in the region to prepare a candidate. The owner of the successful contestant will receive an award to reward him for chaperoning the candidate.

On Aug. 29, the Queen will be presented by Mr. Nolan, educational director of CCC Camp Michigan.

On Aug. 30, the annual State Kiwanis convention will be held in Charlevoix. Most of the local members are planning to attend, at least part of the time.

SCHOOL BAND ENJOYED PICNIC

The final day of the summer school band program found several of the Grayling merchants joining hands and giving the young musicians a picnic.

Instead of the usual Friday morning rehearsal and evening concert the band went to Otsego lake for an all-day picnic. The youthful group left Grayling at 10:30 a. m. in the school bus, thirty strong.

At the lake the group spent the major part of their time swimming. The lunch was furnished by the following merchants in food or cash donations: Carl Peterson, Burrows Meat Market, Canning's Grocery, A & P Market, both meat and grocery managers, Mac & Gidley, Shopper's Inn, Hanson's Cafe, Melichar's Bakery, Grayling Mercantile Co., "Spike" McNeven, Dawson's, and Mrs. C. G. Clippert.

Swimming was under the supervision of the Recreational Division of the Works Progress Administration, with Leo Lovely supervising.

CATERING TO TOURISTS

"We can better provide for the visiting tourists when we have sold our state to our own people. It is surprising how few are really out in front making the tourist welcome and telling him where he can find the outdoor activity which has the greatest appeal for him."

Those important words were spoken by George E. Bishop, secretary and manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, at a weekend conference of persons interested in the tourist and resort business at Mackinac Island, and it seems highly significant that they should come from one who knows whereof he speaks.

We have been satisfied that the four tourist associations have done a commendable job of publicizing Michigan and its countless attractions. As a matter of fact, their work has been so well handled that the tourist business now ranks as the state's second largest industry.

But Mr. Bishop calls attention to another very vital element which needs to arouse itself if Michigan is to capitalize on the tourist dollars now available. That element is made up of those who live within the state and who should know more about what Michigan has to offer than anyone else. That is particularly true of those doing business directly with the tourist, but it also is obvious that everyone else should help. After all, the dollar doesn't stop its circulation with the first sale. Rather, it turns over seven or eight times so that many vastly different businesses get a touch of it, or that reason if for no other it would seem that Michigan residents should do all within their power to encourage the tourist, satisfy him with sufficient accurate information to make his vacation complete, and make him feel so well about his treatment all down the line that not only are we sure of his return, but that there is a strong chance he will entice others to visit the state.—Bay City Times.

Only 11 Days Left For Trout Fishing

Fisherman have only eleven days remaining in which to pursue their sport in most Michigan trout waters this season. Trout creels must be snapped shut for this year, with some exceptions, by midnight on Labor Day, which is Monday, September 4.

In general, trout streams and trout lakes will be closed to all fishing after Labor Day. Certain trout streams or portions of such streams are designated as open to fishing throughout the year for the taking of all fish during their respective seasons. Persons wishing to know the designated waters in any section should consult the conservation officials located there.

It will be illegal to take brook, brown and rainbow trout after September 4, except that rainbow or steelhead trout may be taken in the Soo Rapids of the St. Mary's river in Chippewa county, until September 15.

Further exceptions to the Labor Day closing on rainbow trout are certain waters mainly connected with or adjacent to Lake Michigan in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula. In this area rainbow or steelhead runs will be a big drawing card during the fall.

We Laughed,
So Will You

Last week it was my privilege to take a group of Detroiters to see the Hartwick Pines. Of course my friends were thrilled to see those beautiful trees. But we found that some of the visitors were not at all enthusiastic. West coast tourists were evidently disappointed. Said one: "Why them ain't no big trees? If you come to California we'll show you trees what really is trees. Once you see our trees you'll be braggin' bout these."

Whereupon a spokesman from Ohio came forward: "Why shucks, if you'll come down into Ohio we'll show you some oaks that's big eruf to stand this whole grove in the shade. Why them ain't nothin' to brag about. We got oaks that really is oaks! Come and see 'em!"

At this stag I saw a man who was evidently preparing his little speech. As soon as he found a lull in the conversation he began:

"Why shucks I'm surprised. Now I come from loway—from Iowa, the state where the tall corn grows! Why every farmer in Iowa raises corn taller'n them trees!"

Fortunately this ended the confab. I shudder to think what would have become of our Hartwick Pines if a couple of Kentucky Colonels or Arkansaw

Travelers had joined the group.

Isn't it fine to see people upholding standards and traditions of their home state when away from home? That's loyalty!

BLACKSMITHS HAVE NO MORE MUSCLES THAN OTHER MEN

Many people believe that a blacksmith, by steady use of his arm, develops more muscles than other men, and that he may even pass these extra muscles on to his children. The truth is that no amount of exercise can produce any new muscles in anybody. All that we can do is to increase the size of the muscles already present. This increase in size cannot be inherited, and a blacksmith's son has no more chance of strong and large muscles than the son of a clerk.

Mr. Oscar Schumann
Editor Crawford County Press
Grayling, Michigan

Dear Mr. Schumann:

I am wondering if the following bit of information would not make a good news story. I shall go into the story somewhat in detail in the hope that you can get the whole picture in that way.

During the past four years I have tested the Grayling seniors each year using a battery of eight tests. Superintendent Poor, the board of education, and each class must feel that these tests have some value, otherwise they would not continue the plan from year to year. I have taken, as you know, nearly a week each year to complete this job.

Among those who have comprised the student body enrollment whom I have noticed particularly because of his record is one Emil Tahvonen. Emil is a tow-headed little fellow whose parents came from the land of Finland. His record came especially to my attention at the time when I gave the tests last year and then again when I attended the commencement in Grayling. He was valedictorian of his class he received as you remember, the Kiwanis prize of $25.00, he was awarded the Boys State by the American Legion, and he was given the scholarship of the school.

Mr. Poor, your Superintendent, is in my judgment, one of the finest among the younger school men in the state, or for that matter, young or old. He has the welfare of the boys and girls at heart in a way that does heart good to behold. Mr. Poor feels as do I that a girl whose interests are nursing should take nursing, and one whose interests are scientific should take science. I said to him, "Emil is the business type and I hope he will go somewhere to a business school." He agreed with me and his own sense of fairness dictated that he leave out his personal interest in the affair even though we are close friends. I talked with Emil and he enrolled with us with the understanding that we would find him a part time job. In the meantime, he went to work for your Dairy Company there in Grayling and I think up to last week had saved in the neighborhood of $100.00 for his college fund.

One day last week the manager of one of our oil companies came to us and said, "We want a young man to work from five to ten in the afternoon and evening four days a week full time on the weekend. We pay for this service $50.00 per month." He mentioned some of the qualities he wanted in the young man such as honesty, sincerity, ability to work hard, and not the clock-watcher type. I immediately thought of Emil and I sent him a wire at 1:30. He wired back, "I am leaving at 4:30 for Bay City." That evening when I returned home my folks said, "We have a young man in the spare room who says he is a friend of yours." I realized from that that Emil had arrived for work. He started the next morning in the gas station. This morning I was over to the station and I asked the manager how Emil was getting along. His reply was, "He is a diamond." In these days he has recognized the points of strength of this young man from Grayling and is perhaps willing to keep him on during the time that Emil will be with us in school. Fifty dollars covers tuition, board, and room. The $100 that he has saved will furnish his clothes during that period. In eighteen months he should be finished with our Executive Secretarial course. From then on he will be limited only by his own ability.

I believe that "Success Story" should be told to the youth of Crawford County, because elsewhere, many of our fine

Copper Harbor, Mich.—"Copper Harbor, Michigan" Mountains in Michigan?

Yes, it's true.

Thousands of residents of the Wolverine state may scoff at the statement, proof indeed that this strange, vast region of the Upper Peninsula is still the "great unknown."

Here is a country of mechanized mines and many idle workmen.

It is a land covered 50 to 100 years ago by virgin pine forests, now being gradually restored by federal and state agencies.

It contains the cream of Michigan's natural scenery.

Its people are generous and hospitable. They welcome the traveler, treat him royally, and all for a very good reason. For the tourist business has supplemented the exploitation of natural resources—copper, iron and lumber—as its leading industry.

That is why mountains in Michigan are going to continue to pay millions of dollars in dividends regardless of what happens to their mineral content.

Toonerville Trolley

But before you pull on your hiking boots for a stiff mountain climb, tarry with me for an interesting sidebar near Newberry into the Tahquamenon Falls.

In this feverish age of hurried travel when the American tourist spends much of the day behind an automobile wheel, and expects to see the scenery at stops of an hour or so, the trip to the Tahquamenon Falls is delightfully old fashioned. Its slow pace may be accidental, but nevertheless it is a positive asset.

You drive your car over M-28 between Sainte Marie and Newberry to a spur highway going north to See Junction.

On an old narrow gauge lumber railway line the famous "Toonerville Trolley"—two gasoline pusher engines a couple of flat cars, and a string of open sightseeing wagons on wheels—transport you easily to the Tahquamenon river. Although the distance is only four and one-half miles across a blueberry marsh and cut-over pine land, the trolley requires nearly an hour.

What's the hurry, anyway? At the wide river you board a spacious two-deck "showboat," the Betty B, propelled by modern twin motors, and in dreamy comfort travel by water through a hardwood forest for around twenty miles. That takes two hours and a half.

A brisk walk over a woods trail to the falls. Ninety minutes time to view the second largest cataract east of the Mississippi, and then you're on your way leisurely back to the See Junction. The trolley leaves at 10 a.m. and returns at 6:30 p.m.

We saw seven deer from the 40,000 inhabitants; today, it has 16,000. When Michigan's automobile centers were booming, Calumet people departed by the trainloads. Detroit, for example, has a large Calumet "colony."

Mechanization of the copper mines, together with sinking of shafts to unprofitable deep levels and the low price of copper itself, brought widespread unemployment to the Copper range. Old deserted mining towns present a picture that is strange to the average inlander. Contrast to this are well-filled theaters and taverns.

Brockway Mountain Drive

The Keweenaw peninsula is literally packed with scenic grandeur.

After traveling through numerous mining towns, most of them situated in a valley between two ranges of hills, you arrive at Eagle Harbor on Lake Superior and soon start ascending the Brockway mountain drive.

Devoid of billboards, hot dog stands and gasoline stations, the drive sweeps around and over the Keweenaw mountains, giving you a double view of forest and lake on one side and a rocky, forested shore line of the blue Lake Superior.

When the atmosphere is clear, you can see Isle Royale, 50 miles away.

A sleepy fishing village, Copper Harbor, comes into sight, and adjoining it is the million-dollar Keweenaw Park, built by the WPA in the depression days when most of the county inhabitants were on relief. Instead of keeping the jobless miners on a dole, the government put them to work creating a model tourist park from amid a wilderness. A clubhouse, cabins and a nine-hole golf course were constructed and then handed over to the county highway department to maintain.

Harold Westcott, aviator and proprietor of the Pontiac Resort at Copper Harbor, told us that more than 70 cabins are now available for tourists. This region is especially lovely in the Fall between Sept. 15 and Oct. 1 when frosts turn the forest foliage into riotous gay hues of reds and yellows.

Lake of the Clouds

Within an easy drive from Houghton is Ontonagon at the edge of the Ottawa National forest and adjacent to the Porcupine mountains.

Ontonagon is enjoying a belated boom. Seven miles of streets are being paved. Many new homes have been built this season.

The state highway department is constructing several rustic bridges, the upper parts consisting of logs, on the Porcupine drive which skirts Lake Superior going as far west as the Lake of the Clouds. There the road terminates with a turn-around. Some day it will be pushed west along the lake shore through virgin white pine tracts to the vicinity of Ironwood with connecting roads to Duluth.

Guided by Claude Riley, publisher of the Ontonagon Herald, we climbed "Pork," abetted by a farm staff, and viewed the Lake of the Clouds. This body of water is cupped between two ranges of rolling mountains.

"This region has great tourist possibilities," enthused Riley. "But the average tourist doesn't know what to look for. We need rustic signs to guide the traveler over trails. We must acquaint the visitor with our historical lore as well as our scenic lure. The S.Y.A. is starting a sign project here, and James Jamison, former deputy auditor general, is supervising the wording for them."

Lake of the Clouds was formerly Carp Lake, an abbreviation for Escarpment lake, so named because of a high stone bluff on the mountain from which hikers obtain a rare vista of distant mountains.

Still the passenger was oblivious, according to the Montreal Star.

I merely allude, in a manner perhaps lacking in delicacy, but not in conciseness, to the monetary obligation incurred by your presence in this car, and suggest that you liquidate.

MANAGEMENT OF STOMACH ULCER

It is estimated that from 5 to 10 per cent of the adult population of the United States suffers from gastric ulcer.

An ulcer may be said to be an open sore, other than a wound, resulting in gradual disintegration and ultimate death of the tissues. It appears in the stomach usually on the posterior wall of the lesser curvature or in the duodenum. The cause is not known, although predisposing factors are inherited tendency, emotional strain, fatigue and irritating or improper diet.

Gastric ulcer is manifested by localized pain, vomiting—sometimes with the appearance of blood—gradual loss of weight and strength, dyspepsia, grave anemia and evidences of excessive secretion of hydrochloric acid.

Modern medical and surgical procedures offer a favorable outlook for the case of gastric ulcer. Taken in its early stages and before the threat of perforation of the stomach wall, intestinal obstruction or inanition, gastric ulcer can be brought under control.

The task of the physician is to prevent recurrence of the ulcer symptoms and his success is predicated wholly on the degree of co-operation obtainable from the patient. Management of such cases is chiefly dietary.

The doctor should provide his patient with a list of articles which he may eat and those which he must avoid. In all probability, he will recommend six, seven, easily digested meals daily instead of the usual three hearty meals. Alcohol in any form is prohibited.

Milk and buttermilk should be substituted for tea and coffee. Meat is permitted once daily. Whole wheat bread, an abundance of fruit juices, a large variety of well-cooked vegetables and nearly all the desserts usually found on the menu are allowed.

In many cases, a recurrence of ulcer symptoms may be traced to foods eaten away from home and, particularly, to the hamburgers, wieners and other questionable "delicacies" served by roadside stands. In other cases, hot sauces and soups, highly spiced salads, condiments including horseradish, coarse breads, bran, seedy vegetables, fruit skins, olives, nuts, rich pies, puddings and cakes and raw vegetables such as cucumbers, radishes and celery are found to have excited an old stomach lesion.

Nervousness, fatigue or excitement must be avoided. One patient on record owed his recurrence of symptoms to a dramatic radio broadcast. Another suffered an attack when he lost his job.

Occasionally, acute infection due to a cold, a sore throat or an abscessed tooth may cause old ulcers to flare up anew. Every protection against

CELEBRATES 96TH MILESTONE

Mrs. Margaret Husted, mother of Mrs. T. E. Douglas and Mrs. Clarence Stillwagon of Lovells, celebrated her 96th birthday anniversary in West Branch Sunday, where she has resided for over half a century.

The occasion was observed with a family dinner at the Husted home in West Branch, followed by an open house, when the aged lady, assisted by her daughter Miss Marguerite, received relatives and friends during the afternoon and evening. Mrs. Husted was born in Lundy's Lane, Ont., and first came to Michigan in 1861. She is the mother of eight children, who besides Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. Stillwagon are William, Charles, Ernest, James and Marguerite of West Branch, and Mrs. D. V. Clark of Weyanega, Wis.

KEEP CHILDREN OUT OF DETROIT

Anouncement that the Detroit schools will not open this fall until September 18th, due to infantile paralysis, should serve as a caution for parents to keep children from visiting there while that epidemic prevails.

Why take the risk of exposing your children to danger? Adults are not readily susceptible to that disease.

Club

The ladies of the Auxiliary were guests of the Gaylord Ladies G. F. club Tuesday.

The golfers enjoyed a match game in the morning, with Miss Jayne Keypert totaling the low score for Grayling.

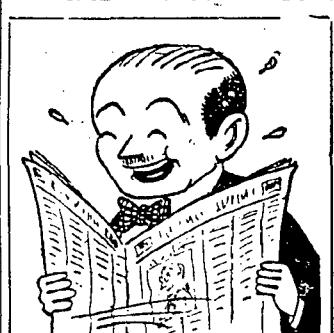

A very delicious luncheon was served in the lovely club house by the Gaylord committee which was followed by a concert. Mrs. O. P. Schumann had the high score for Grayling and Mrs. E. E. Ray for Gaylord.

This was the final tournament with other towns for this season.

Next Wednesday a pot luck luncheon will be given at our golf club house.
